

Prospective separability predicts held-out human attribution

